When Wilka started working at my firm (Gordon, Misner & Robinson) 20 years ago, she immediately impressed me with her intelligence and willingness to work hard. During that partnership, Wilka was our office manager and responsible for all of our bookkeeping as well as supervising our computer system, all of our software and many, many personnel issues as well.

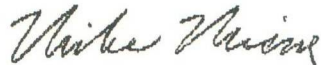

Wilka worked with that firm for nearly 8 years during which time I came to rely on her on a daily basis. When I opened as a sole practitioner 18 months ago, I turned to Wilka who by this time had formed her own company in which she works with small law firms.

Despite 33 years in the practice, I was overwhelmed by the time consuming details of being a one-person office. Wilka started working with me about six months ago and it has been because of her help that my bills are getting out on time and that the office is getting back on course. Prior to her arrival at my office, I felt as though I was putting out a forest fire with a Dixie cup.

I cannot think of a better colleague than Wilka for an attorney thinking about starting his/her own firm – this is especially the case if you are thinking about breaking off from your current firm and going it alone.

Aside from being very bright and honest, she brings a terrific sense of humor and never tires of telling her clients, "Things are getting better and just think how much better everything will be at this time next year."

I recommend Wilka as an office consultant without any hesitation and would be willing to discuss my work with her with anyone at any time.
